Last Christmas, I went to Japan with my two best friends. One of my best moments was feeding deer in Nara Park.

As we arrived at Nara Park, there were already lots of tourists. Everyone was so excited to see the adorable deer. To quickly get in touch with these cute creatures, I rushed to the store and bought “deer biscuits”, which are the deer’s favourite food. A deer was soon attracted by the biscuit in my hands and walked towards me. I approached it carefully and handed a biscuit to it. It finished the biscuit in just a few seconds and looked at me again with its bright round eyes. I was melted and fell in love with it immediately.

We ended up spending the whole morning in the park with the deer. We enjoyed it a lot.
